Chapter 1 by Jennifer Barber

Yesterday began as any other routine day. The sun was up, the early morning chill in the air was cool yet not cold. We began our walk to school as we always do, headed up the hill, turn right on 5th street and on to Main Street. As we approached Main Street, it happened.

Chapter 2 by KYLER MCKENZIE

Giant squids started raining from the skies. They were landing on cars, people, and other living things. I couldn't believe my eyes, they started flying after us. We all scattered everywhere, I was hiding in a pipe inside a ditch. I heard the others screaming, then all the screaming eventually ended.

I peeked my head out of the pipe a little and saw that the squids were holding my friends captive. I suddenly knew that the squids were flying to the next town. "MAX", I heard. Then I looked behind me and saw my friend, "Bob". I crawled from the pipe and he was waiting for me to get out. Well looks like were gonna have really weird war. Bob said. I nodded, Yep, Man VS. Squid.

"What should we do?" I said.

"Good question."

"Do you know anybody else?"

Bob ponders this question for a bit. A few seconds later, his face lights up with an idea.

"Follow me"

I stare at Bob questioningly.

"Where are we going?" I said

"You're just gonna have to trust me." Bob looks around, making sure that the coast is clear. I can't help getting a tiny bit annoyed at Bob. We're in the middle of a crisis here. Why and what is he not telling me?

Chapter 4 by Landon Lee

Bob took off running without so much as a glance behind his back. Reluctantly, I took off after him, knowing he would be expecting me. He can be a little sensitive when it comes to being disappointed.

I never knew that Bob was quite so agile-- you wouldn't think he was the type of person looking at him. He had a stocky build, and was a little short, but this didn't stop him from bobbing and weaving through the tight lanes and alleys that we ran through. That would come in handy when avoiding the squids.

We came to a stop at a run-down building. I could hear loud shouting and children's laughter coming from the inside of the building. He stopped and turned towards me.

"These guys can help us," he said and stepped inside.

Chapter 5 by AjThe1st

"Are you bullshitting me?!" Bob exclaimed

"No. I'm not." I replied

As we walked through the building to get to the center it look as if the kids that were guarding the building were in ranks. On the outer skirt of the building were Omega platoon/squad. They very childish, i guess to get rid of them first no time for horse play. The Inner skirts of the building was Bravo platoon/squad. Sometimes serious then goofy. Then the center of the building kids were guarding this chair tower looking thing. They were the Elite platoon/squad, the best in the building. The kid in the center of the tower, he was the one who

"Who are you? What do you want?" I asked. "I want to know why you are here. Why are you trespassing? Elite squad, kill them both!"

Me and Bob both yelled

"Wait please don't!"

The looked at us for a minute then finally said

"Answer my questions i just previously asked you then i might consider helping you."

Chapter 6 by Alexander van Geuns

"Were here because of the squid crisis!" I yell, "Can you help us?"

The kid sighs. "I knew this day was coming, the squids are only the first wave."

"What!" I scream. "How is that possible?"

"The ocean is rebelling against pollution, sending all its creatures to exterminate humans, the next wave... crustaceans"

Suddenly a huge crash resonates.

"Report!" yells the kid.

"Front wall has been breached sir," someone replies.

The kid leans over and whispers in the ear of a soldier. The soldier gives a quick nod and heads off with a small group of kids.

"You will help guard the palace." the kid says to us.

He hands some hammers and we run off.

Chapter 7 by Laura Frost

Hammers are very useful. I feel like a superhero, swinging wildly and hitting crustaceans half the time. My arm is aching, so I switch to my left hand.

Hitting things with a hammer is fun, as the things I am hitting are trying to kill me.

How did I even get here.

By the time my left hand is aching as well, all of the crustaceans are either dead or have retreated. A lot of the kids come back to the center building. Some of them are injured, and all of them are covered in pieces of dead crustaceans.

Gross.

"Report!" Yells the kid who's is probably in charge.

"The enemy has fallen back! Mild injuries, no deaths, and the outermost defense is in pieces. No sign of the enemy so far, they appear to have fully pulled back."

"Good. Now, to you two."

I shift uncomfortably. Bob seems fairly relaxed and confident. He's handling this quite well. Unusually well.

What is he hiding?

"You two survived and didn't make fools of yourselves. That's more than I can say for most of Omega Platoon. As of now, you are new recruits. the bottom of the ladder. Train, stay alive, and don't get somebody else killed. Now go help with the outer wall repair efforts."

We were part of the group now. I'm not sure how I felt about that, but better in here than out there.

Maybe.

Chapter 8 by יובל דותן בן זאב

I look at the window, and I wasn't feel good about it anymore.

"Bob!" I said "we are surrounded! It's not a safe place! Let's get out of here!"

suddenly, bob look at me and he look angry. He look like a multiple and his eyes was black.

he murmur something and

"help!" I yelled at them but everybody disappeared. I started to ran out from the building but we were surrounded by the aliens.

so I stood face to face with the strange bob.

"you don't know what you doing!!!" he screamed at me while picking up the hammer. "this world belong to us...." I stopped him while I pushed him, and run to the other side of the building.

I did not stop to running.

I did not look back.
